Victor Seymour Governing Body decides to join Greenshaw Learning Trust

The Governing Body of Victor Seymour Infants' School in Carshalton has decided that the school will become an academy in the Greenshaw Learning Trust.

Martin Rowlands, Chair of Governors at Victor Seymour Infants' School said, "We believe Victor Seymour has a lot to offer the Trust and will also benefit from collaborative working by becoming an academy in partnership with the Greenshaw family of schools."

"The Governing Body has been considering its options for the long term future of the school. In the Greenshaw Learning Trust we have found the partner that will provide further opportunities for our pupils and staff, as well as share the high level of knowledge and skills Victor Seymour staff are able to offer other schools."

Mike Cooper, Chair of the Greenshaw Learning Trust said: "We are delighted that Victor Seymour Infants School wants to join the Greenshaw Learning Trust. Victor Seymour is a popular school, rated 'good' by Ofsted that will bring its energy and expertise to contribute to our family of schools."

Victor Seymour Governing Body will be setting out its proposals and consulting its stakeholders in January. Further information will be issued and posted on the school's website in due course.

Yours sincerely
